

Google Tools Training for Journalists

WHEN: Saturday, Sept. 28 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

WHERE: Columbia College Chicago (600 S. Michigan Ave.), Room 401

WHOM: Professional and aspiring journalists

From data scraping to mobile and desktop reporting apps, this FREE, hands-on training session can help you improve your reporting and add visualization to your stories. Please bring your laptop and smartphone!

To RSVP and learn more, please email us: chicagocja@gmail.com.

About SPJ Trainer Mike Reilley

Reilley has taught Google News Initiative tools to more than 5,200 journalists and educators in the past three years. He taught digital journalism for 13 years at Northwestern University, Arizona State University and DePaul University and is currently a visiting lecturer at the University of Illinois-Chicago. He also founded the research site The Journalist's Toolbox (journaliststoolbox.org) for SPJ and runs the Chicago data site, The Red Line Project (redlineproject.org).

Sponsored by

Google
News Initiative